Grande must designate persons with sufficient knowledge to testify on all information known or reasonably available to Grande on these topics. The deposition will occur on a date or dates and at a location to be agreed upon by Plaintiffs and Grande, but not later than December 10, 2022. The deposition will be taken before a court reporter, under oath, and will be recorded by stenograph, videotape, and audiotape.

DEFINITIONS

1. “Grande” or “Defendant” mean Defendant Grande Communications Networks, LLC and/or any persons or entities acting on its behalf or in concert with it, its employees, consultants, agents, officers, representatives, attorneys, or other persons authorized to act for Grande Communications Networks, LLC.
2. “Subscriber” or “customer” means one or more individual(s) or entities Defendant assigned an IP address for Internet service, including the individual(s) or entities responsible for paying for the Internet service.
3. “Communication” means a document that has been delivered by, sent by, addressed to, copied to, or transmitted by one person or entity to another person or entity. A correspondence may be in written form, electronic form, or in email form. A correspondence sent by email includes all attachments. It includes memoranda distributed to anyone in an office, including but not limited to intra-office memoranda and inter-office memoranda.
4. “Churn Rate” means the annual percentage rate at which customers stop subscribing to Grande’s internet services.
5. “Marginal cost” means the cost to Grande of providing internet services to one additional customer.
6. “Internet Protocol (“IP”) Address” means a unique string of numbers and or letters that identifies a specific interface on a network and is assigned to a subscriber by an Internet Service Provider (“ISP”).

7. "And" and "or" and "and/or" shall be construed conjunctively or disjunctively as necessary to bring within the scope of the request all responsive documents.

8. "Any" shall include "all" and "all" shall include "any".

9. As used herein, the term “document” or “documents” shall mean and include the following:

- a. “Documents” and “electronically stored information” as these terms are used in FRCP Rule 34. Such material includes “writings, drawings, graphs, charts, photographs, sound recordings, images, and other data or data compilations—stored in any medium from which information can be obtained either directly or, if necessary, after translation by the responding party into a reasonably usable form;”
- b. Correspondence;
- c. Tangible things containing information;
- d. Notes, memoranda, and journals;
- e. Drawings, blueprints, and plans;
- f. Electronic/digital/computer files and records;
- g. Contracts and agreements;
- h. Legal instruments or official documents;
- i. Financial statements, worksheets, reports, projections, schedules, ledgers, books, records, and journals;
- j. Vouchers, expense accounts, receipts, invoices, bills, orders, billings, cost breakdowns, and checks;

- k. Investigation or incident reports;
- l. Files, and records;
- m. Proposals, feasibility studies, engineering studies, renderings, plans, drawings;
- n. Reports;
- o. Testifying expert reports, opinions and back up documents; and
- p. Drafts or draft copies of any of the above.

11. Documents include email and attachments. You may produce email and attachments in printed form, but you should preserve the electronically stored file, and produce said files if requested. When producing electronically stored information, please produce the files on a DVD or other storage device and identify the software required to open the files.

12. Documents include electronically stored information, such as, for example, spreadsheets stored as Excel or QuickBooks files on a computer. You may produce such documents in printed form, but you should preserve the electronically stored file, and produce said files if requested.

13. The instant discovery request does not include documents protected by the attorney-client privilege.

14. If you object to responding to any discovery request, in whole or in part, state your objection and the factual or legal reasons supporting it. If you object on grounds of privilege, please state the nature of the matter to allow assessment of the sufficiency of the privilege. For each discovery request or part thereof to which you object on the ground of burdensomeness, please indicate the custodian and location of each file or document requested, and the time estimated to obtain the information.

15. Undefined terms have their plain and ordinary meaning in the context of the relevant request.
